Introducing ioppolo & Associates

In 1996, ioppolo & Associates was established specifically to assist organisations in the area of Corporate Performance Management encompassing Management Reporting, Reporting, Planning, Budgeting and Forecasting.

Guy ioppolo identified the “consulting services gap” that organisations were experiencing when they needed assistance in designing, developing and deploying their Corporate Performance Management Solutions.

As most Corporate Performance Management Solutions are designed to address the needs of the senior management and their divisions, ioppolo & Associates took steps to ensure that the consulting team had an appropriate mix of business acumen and computer science skills. The joining of these skillsets effectively closes the “consulting services gap”.

Technical Consultants vs. Strategic Consultants

Whilst many try, there are few consultants in the Corporate Performance marketplace that can effectively combine strategy with execution.

All too often, organisations engage “strategic consultants” that can provide “best practice” methodology but do not have the appropriately skilled technicians that can implement the desired methodology using appropriate technology.

Conversely, organisations engage “technical consultants” that can deliver a “best practice” technical solution that falls short on delivering the required business outcomes.

The I&A Approach

ioppolo & Associates (I&A) has consultants with extensive corporate experience and business qualifications. I&A also has consultants with the skillset to take on responsibility for the technical systems infrastructure together with the ability to ensure that the solution works both from a business and operational perspective.

I&A fills the consulting services gap by being able to firstly, advise customers on best practice corporate performance management strategies and secondly, having the right technical experts to implement a best practice corporate performance management solution suited to your business.
